

Bridging ethnic divides and building peace: Lessons from Kenya's Experience

Book Launch and Dialogue with Alice Nderitu

Moderated by Beth Woroniuk of the Women, Peace and Security Network Canada

About Alice Nderitu

Alice Nderitu is a Senior Advisor with the Geneva-based Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue. She was the 2011 Transitional Justice Fellow of the Institute for Justice and Reconciliation, South Africa. She has been internationally recognized for her work in conflict prevention and for her innovative approach to mediation: Woman Peace Maker of the Year (2012) from the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice; the Global Pluralism Award (2017), by the Global Centre for Pluralism; and the Jack P. Blaney Award for Dialogue (2017-18) by the Simon Fraser University Morris J. Wosk Centre for Dialogue. Watch Alice's story here.

About Beth Woroniuk

Beth Woroniuk is currently the Policy Lead at The MATCH International Women's Fund. She also coordinates the Women, Peace and Security Network-Canada, a network monitoring the Canadian government's implementation of the women, peace and security (WPS) agenda. For more than 25 years, Beth has advised and worked with bilateral aid agencies, UN entities and NGOs, strengthening their work on gender equality and women's rights at headquarters and in numerous countries (including Ukraine, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Nicaragua, & Bolivia). She has developed analytical tools, supported policy development, designed training and conducted evaluations. Beth has also carried out research, blogged, lobbied, testified before Parliament, and led initiatives on WPS. She is currently a member of the Core Group of the NATO Civil Society Advisory Panel on Women, Peace and Security. Beth has degrees from the University of Saskatchewan and the University of Toronto.